YOUR STRENGTHS COACHING HELPS OTHERS AND HELPS YOURSELF

Your coaching enables others to be their best self. Your clients yearn to be happy—satisfied at work and in their relationships.

As a College of Executive Coaching Certified Strengths Coach, the best teams and organizations will rely on you as the professional to help employees be more successful and happier at work.

We help you use the power of the Gallup CliftonStrengths assessment, along with other well-validated strengths assessments, such as the VIA Pro, to help people accomplish great things by doing what they naturally do best. We teach our coaches how to have skilled coaching conversations that focus on helping people understand their talents and turn them into strengths. Unlike other strengths coach training, we don’t rely on just one assessment or one methodology. We provide a multi-faceted strengths coaching toolset and coaching models that not only include how to use the best strengths coaching assessments, but also in-depth coaching competency development. Through our training you not only become prepared to be a certified strengths coach, but also receive all the education needed for application to become an ICF Credentialed Coach.

NBME AND NBHWC COLLABORATE ON THE LAUNCH OF THE PRESTIGIOUS HEALTH AND WELLNESS COACH CREDENTIAL

Historic Agreement to Nationally Certify Health and Wellness Coaches

(SAN DIEGO and PHILADELPHIA) The National Board of Medical Examiners (NBME) and the National Board for Health & Wellness Coaching (NBHWC) signed an agreement launching a national certification for individual health and wellness coaches. The new Health and Wellness Coach credential is based on the science of positive psychology.

Co-founder of the NBHWC, Karen Lawson, MD, identified this agreement as a “pivotal event in the evolution of health and wellness coaching and we appreciate the professional credibility offered by the National Board of Medical Examiners.”

The National Board of Medical Examiners (the same agency that conducts physician licensing exams) and the National Board for Health and Wellness Coaching envision a professional community that is dedicated to high-quality coaching skills across healthcare, academia, and industry.

Past Vice President of the International Coach Federation, Jeffrey Auerbach, Ph.D. stated that those with advanced training in positive psychology are best qualified to earn this widely recognized credential.

Responsible for assessing physicians’ readiness to practice medicine for 100 years, NBME identified the certification of health and wellness coaches as a vital priority in addressing the national crisis in unhealthy lifestyles.

The College of Executive Coaching’s Post-Graduate Certification in Positive Psychology Wellness and Well-Being Coaching qualifies you to sit for the new National Board of Medical Examiner’s Health and Wellness Coach exam.
